men expressed a determination to volunteer for the entire war. The Sixth regiment is composed almost entirely of Germans, and they yesterday presented an appearance of having done good service in the cause in which they enolled themselves. The men were formed in line opposite the market previous to their being mustered out of service, and it occupied nearly an hour before the entire proceedings were gone through with. The arms, accountements, &c., of the regiment were given back to the proper authorities on Tuesday, and the regiment now owes allegiance to no power but that of the State of New York. No one can say but that the Sixth have done their duty, and when called upon again there is no doubt but that they will again do honor to the flag under which they have so faithfully served.

Hincks, arrived in Jersey City between twelve and one o'clock yesterday morning from Havre de Grace, the term of their three months' enlistment having expired. The Eighth is composed of as fine a body of men as ever left New England, and had they but had a chance to take part in the battle of Bull run there might have been much more have committed on the rebellious subjects of the United States. It must be fresh in the minds of our readers that it was this regiment, in conjunction with the Seventh of New York, who labored so hard in repairing the railroad track torn up by the rebels during their re treat from Annapolis. The Eighth built several strong military structures at the places where they were stationed, and also nock the United States frigate Constitution from the possession of the rebels, and had her safely conveyed to this port. ## RETURN OF THE SIXTH MASSACHUSETTS

REGIMENT.
ENTRUSIASTIC RECEPTION IN THIS CITY.

The Sixth Massachusetts regiment, Col. Edward F-fones, passed through this city yesterday en routefor their homes in the old Bay State. They have been stasoned at the Relay Rouse and Baltimore alternately sine April last, and the term of their enlistment expired about the 224 of July, but the men unanimously volunteered to remain until their place could be filled by some one of the aewly raised regiments. Our readers will doubtless remember that this was the first regiment to take the told after the issuing of the proclamation by President Lincoln for volunteers to preserve the integrity of the union and put down rebellion in the South. But a few forms elapsed after the first call for volunteers was made when these men were mustered, and, bidding a south the oved ones at home, they started for the South. The first and only encounter they have had with the Southern rebels took place at the very outset of their career, being attacked by a ruffianly mob in the streets of Balti-more on the 19th of April last, in which they lost here men; many others were severely wounded, two of whom have since died from the effect of the injeries they received. This is the whole loss the egiment has austained since leaving home, and during their whole stay in the South but few cases of sickness ours demanded the doctor's care, and note have proved latal.

Ther departure from the Relay House took place at six of check on Tuesday morning, arriving in Philadelphia at a sate hour the same day, after a long and tedious journey. They left Philadelphia by the Camden and Amboy ftailroad, about seven o'clock yesterday merning, and arrived in this city shortly after three o'clock yesterday afternoon. At the Buttery they were met by a detection of the sons of Massachusetts, carrying their State Bas. After the interchange of friend y greeting and congratuations the regiment was wheeled into line by platrone, and, proceeded by a strong body of policemen and the "sons," they marched up Broadway. The greeting accorded them by cur children and all along the line of march was most enthusiastic, cheering, waving or bandkerchief and dipping of flags, marked their pregress along Roadway. An imiliance crowd had congregated in the vicinity of the Astor House, and as cach company of the Sixth marched past the large

They then might have saved our commerce from many of the depredations that have been committed, and avoided the embarrassment that is sure to follow their slow page for all that has been done, but insist that the depart-ment shall move ten times as fast as it has done, until no vessel can either enter or emerge from any harbor, river, bay, inlet or creek along the shore of the secoded States, and no privateer is allowed to ail unmolested upon the ocean.

In April the Commodore of the Navy Yard at Brooklyn purchased and chartered twenty steamships and pro-pellers, and they are now all engaged in the blockade. Last mouth the steamships Rhode Island and Connecticut, vessels of about 1,800 tons, were purchased and armed to run along the coast from this port to Galveston, to carry troops and supplies to the different squadrons, and to cruise for privateers on their outward and homeward routes. They are both very fast. Also, in June, there were purchased five ships, of about 1,000 tons each, armed for blockade service in the Gulf, and loaded with coal to supply the steamers in the Gulf. Early this month a spe-cial naval constructor was ordered to this city, with an ordnance officer and engineer, who have thus far purchased the following:-

Steamship James Adger. Propeller Stars and Strines. Propeller Valley City. Steamship Augusta, Steamship Alabama. Bark Brazileria. Bark Dawn. Steaming Satellite

Steaming General Putnem. These have gone to the yards of W. H. Webb, Wester. volt & Co., Bucknams and Messrs, Collyers. Some fifty other vessels and steamers have been examined, and fur ther purchases will be made and other yards supplied with government work. Commodore Paulding is now in the city, and, with the naval constructor, is engaged i examining vessels suited for naval purposes. The Depart-ment has made contracts for the construction of gun car-riages, and most of the vessels purchased will be ready for their armament this week. Similar purchases ar ing made in Roston and Philadelphia; in addition, all the navy yards are very busy fitting out government ves-sels and building the new sloops-of-war; and twenty-three gunboats of five hundred tons each, are being built i

A New SWINDIANG DODGE.—A German Jew, named Joseph Meyer, was brought before Justice Steers, at the Essex Market Police Court, on charge of swinding a nema per of shopkeepers on the east side of the city under the ber of shopkeepers on the east side of the city under the following circumstances.—The prisoner it appears, in company with an accomplice, called upon several dry goods dealers, and, representing that he had several cases of them in bond, asked for money to pay the duties. He had samples of the linens in his possession, and so plausible were his statements that in no less than half a dozon cases did he succeed in obtaining sums varying from $50 to $90. Christiana Schlosser, of No. 38 belancey street, also accused the prisoner of stealing $45 in each from her bedroom while she was busy looking at some of the linen samples in question. The majstrate committed the prisoner for further examination.

The imperial party did not leave. New York for Wash. ington by the morning train yesterday, as was antist pated. They remained at the New York Hetel the whole day. At a little before aix o'clock P. M. the Prince and some five or six gentlemen of his Cortlandt street, and immediately crossed the ferry to Jersey City, where they got on board a one engaged for assembled there soon got wind that the Prince was mone of the cars, which was quickly pointed out. The people thereupon grouped themselves on the platform, and com-menced peering into the car in a manner that evinced more curiosity than politices, and many were the speculations affoat as to which was the Prince-One man pointed to a stout, comfortable looking gentleman, dressed in a light summer suit and straw father, he swore roundly that he was the Prince himself.
Another declared that the gentleman with the smooth, round face and very slight mustache was the Prince while another argued that it could not be, for the Prince prided himself on the absence of all hair from his face, after the manner of his uncle, and all his portraits represented him so. "But," observed a third, "he may have taken to the cultivation of his musiache since his last picture appeared, as Old Abe has his whiskers." The third man was right. It was Napoleon himself. The resca-blance to his uncie, mangre the slight hiraute addition. was so striking that it was a wonder any one could mis-take it. While these speculations were progressing, and the ruleness of the crowd of starers—who were flat-tening their noses against the glasses of the car that had been shut in their faces—was at its height, the whistle sounded, and the train moved off.
